Product Description

Peanut butter is the product before peanut oil is extracted. Peanut butter is yellow-brown in color, fine in texture, delicious, has the inherent rich aroma of peanuts, and is neither moldy nor insect-infested. It is generally used as a seasoning for noodles, steamed buns, bread or salad dishes, and as a filling ingredient for sweet cakes, sweet buns and other fillings.

Peanut butter is made from high-quality peanuts and other raw materials. The finished product is a hard and tough paste with a rich aroma of fried peanuts. High-quality peanut butter is generally light beige in color, with fine quality, rich aroma and no impurities. It can be eaten by the general population, but should not be eaten by those with weak spleen and loose stools, patients with hyperlipidemia, those with bruises and bruises, and those who have had cholecystectomy.

Peanut butter is divided into two types: sweet and salty. It is a nutritious food and is widely used in Western food.
